

Issue 5 dated April 2006 (AM4/22)

Page 43

c) Sounding the horn as a warning

Anyone on or near the line

You must sound the horn to warn anyone who is on or near the line on which you are travelling.

driver

Give a series of short, urgent danger warnings to anyone who is on or dangerously near the line who does not:

- acknowledge your warning by raising one arm above the head, or
- appear to move clear out of the way of the train.

Whistle boards

You must sound the horn when passing a whistle board between 0700 and 2300. You must not sound the horn when passing a whistle board between 2300 and 0700 (except in an emergency or when anyone is seen on or near the line).

Train movements

You must sound the horn:

- when approaching or passing a location where shunting is taking place on a line immediately adjacent to the line you are on
- at any other time you consider necessary.

Tunnels

You must sound the horn before leaving a tunnel if you see someone on or near the line beyond the tunnel exit.

Other purposes

You must sound the horn on starting your train when:

- passing a signal at danger
- making a movement within a possession.