

RSSB document categories and types

published in the standards catalogue

Railway Group Standards (RGSs) and related documents have unique identifiers and are categorised by the activity they relate to, and the type of document they are. Although RGSs are organised by identifying categories and codes, some standards contain multidisciplinary technical and/or operational requirements, so it is advisable to refer to the standards catalogue which filters the RGSs by standards committees.

National Operations Publications (NOPs) define instructions for direct application by staff employed by transport operators. NOPs include the Rule Book Modules, and Handbooks). NOPs are defined by the following identification codes.

